

“There’s both a captivating charm and an open-hearted vulnerability to The Second Time Around that elevates it...a heartwarming tale keeps its narrative sweet and simple as it explores a brand of love that rarely makes its way to the silver screen.”

- THE YOUNG FOLKS

“A gentle and well-intentioned drama... Katherine and Isaac’s trajectory - from dining-room table mates to friends to bed partners - proves credible and occasionally poignant; they’re good people and we root for them.”

- LOS ANGELES TIMES

“Thorson and Margolin deliver fine performances. She’s feisty yet vulnerable. He’s cantankerous yet loving. And as a couple, they mesh in this endearing film.”

- THE TIMES OF ISRAEL

“Visually stimulating with a wonderful soundtrack! Besides being a charming love story, this movie gives us insightful glimpses into the lives of the residents of senior citizen facilities... I recommend it heartily!”

- SAN DIEGO JEWISH NEWS

Katherine Mitchell (Linda Thorson), a widowed yet vibrant senior, wasn’t looking for love a second time – not at her age, and certainly not with grumpy Isaac Shapiro (Stuart Margolin). Despite the nosy bunch of seniors in the residence where Katherine convalesces after breaking her hip, she and Isaac warm to each other over their shared love of music. Against unforeseen obstacles, their love blooms and together they set out to fulfill Katherine’s lifelong dream of going to the opera in Milan.
